Searching within a specific journal

The screenshot shows the MAG Online Library website. The 'Collections' menu is highlighted, and the 'British Journal of Nursing' is selected from the dropdown list. The 'British Journal of Nursing' is circled in pink. The 'Archive' option is also circled in pink in the bottom navigation bar.

Individual journal titles are listed on the Internurse Homepage (to ensure you are in the Internurse database, select 'Collections' at the top of the page and then select 'Internurse').

Once you have done this, you can choose from the available journals, e.g. British Journal of Nursing. This will take you directly to the most recent edition of that journal.

You can also search the archive of the journal by selecting 'Archive' from the menu at the top.
